

Dear FCC, could you please refrain from the push by greedy companies to control and lock their clients into paying more by limiting their choices. Please consider that these companies got their opportunity to shine and be established without these rules. Now, they are insisting that the rules that allowed them to flourish be in place for their survival.